Accidental and occasional interruptions in

Accidental and occasional interruptions in the transaction of business, between employer and employed, are most frequently charged upon those who do he work, and who are least able to bear the burden. Last January there lived in Butler-st., Brooklyn, a widow who worked for a ciothing establishment in Leonard-st. In this city. Experience had taught her that she could send and receive her work through the agency of an express company at less cost than by devoting thereto the otherwise needful amount of time, and ferry and car, or stage fares. The express company was also her agent in collecting the amounts due for work performed. But there came a faiture in the usual weekly remittance. The employers supposed they had paid as usual, but acither the express company mor the woman had received the maoney. The employers refused to pay. The woman must lose the $1 20 is dispute, for she could not prosecute. Only one means of relief sugeasted itself. She told her story of ioss to the Superintendent of the Working-women's Protective Union. After miking the needful inquiries to satisfy themselves that such a course was just and prepar, the officers of the Union directed a prosecution-inhelial of the working-women through their Attorney J.H. Parsons, esq. It was greatly decomposed, the face having been nearly eaten away by fishes. On a clone examination a gash was discovered in the throat, extending from ear to ear, which, from present appearances, is supposed to have been done with a kinit; but whether the deceased was murdered or committed suicide cannot at present be ascertained. Deceased was about five feet eight inches in hight, about 35 years old, with black hair and whiskers. The clothing consisted only of a first shirt and drawers, blue socks, black neck-tie, and leather belt. An inquest will be held to-day.

Appropriate remarks were then made by Messrs, Cartis, Boyden, Ayer, Coffin, Hegeman, and Kennedy. A letter was also read from the Hon. Demas Barnes. It was also resolved that these resolutions be inserted in New-York and Boston papers, and a copy be sent to the family of the deceased.

John J. Phelps, one of most prominent and highly-esteemed of our citizens died yesterday at his residence in Madison-ave., in the 50th year of his age. Mr. Phelps was essentially a "self-made man," having started in life with none of that prestige which attaches to the sons of the well-to-do. At the age of 13 years he entered the City of Hartford, Conn., where he became a printer's apprentice. Seven years from this date, he, in partnership with George D. Prentice, who has since become famous as a wit, started a paper in Hartford, and met with very encouraging success. Leaving his newspaper, he began the manufacture of glass in Susquehama, Penn., and afterward entered the dry goods trade, by which he realized his fortune. At the age of 40 he retired entirely from business, since which he has devoted himself entirely from business, since which he has devoted himself entirely from business, since which he has devoted himself entirely from business, since which he has devoted himself entirely from business. He was the first man in this city that used free-stone as a building material. He was director of the Eric Railway until it was completed, and received the Eric Railway until it was completed, and received the thanks of the Common Council for his services in that great enterprise. He was at various times a director in the Manhattan Gashght Company, the Camden and Ambioy Railroad, the Mercantile, City, and Second National Banks, and the Bleecker-st. Savings Bank. He was a prominent member of the Citizens' Association. idence in Madison-ave., in the 59th year of his age. Mr

LAY REPRESENTATION.

MEETING IN OPPOSITION TO THE INTRODUCTION OF LAY DELEGATES TO THE GENERAL CON-FERENCE OF THE M. E. CHURCH. A meeting of those members of the Methodist Episcopal Church who are opposed to the introduction of Lay Delegates to the General Conference was held last evening in the South Second-st. M. E. Church. About 100 persons were in attendance. Prayer was offered by the Rev. Mr. Hatfield, after which the Chairman, James W. Bradley, said that the object of the meeting was "to hear from some of our friends in opposition to Lay Delegation." The Rev. Mr. Saxe said that he had been practically a layman for ten years, and thought he looked at the question with perfect freedom from partisan bias. Where is the necessity for a change, he asked. We had never seen a minister who desired it, or felt the need of lay help. Most laymen with whom he had talked felt the same. There was agitation in the church, and for the sake of peace they are willing to go in for lay representation. He said that ministers give up certain rights, and in return should have the rights they retain, uninterfered with. Influential business men will not be willing to take the time to attend the Conferences, and such as will be able to go are such as ought to stay at home. Nearly all the troubles in the church are caused by the interference of laymen in its management, and putting the affairs of the church more and more into their hands will increase these troubles. The Rev. Mr. Adams said he was not a champion either way, but he had some doubts on the subject. The early mluisters sacrificed everything and created the church, and the subine success of the century of their rale shows the high wisdom of the policy they imagurated. This movement is not one of the masses; it is a movement of the rich. Men blunder into wealth, and get rich by luck, and then want to rule everything. The masses are satisfied. Sirke out 100 wealthy men from the movement, and it would be as dead as the anti-diluxians are. The most troublesome men in every Church are those who have a little money and but little religion. These are the men who favor Lay Delegations—men who make speeches and sign documents in its favor. "From such," he prayed, "good lard deliver us." The preachers are such by "Divine call." Is it right that laymen should sit on the same seats with them as their equals and peers! Are they equal in the sight of God!

The Rev. Dr. James Porter was the next speaker. Dr. Porter's first peint was that the leaders of the Pro-Slavery party hear from some of our friends in opposition to Lay Delegation." The Rev. Mr. Saxe said that he had been business of insurance agency. Dr. Forter's first point was that the leaders of the lay delegation movement were the former leaders of the Pro-Slavery party in the Church who had taken up this question as a means of regaining the power they had lost by the triumph of the Abolitionists. That is the only reason it has been revived. The increase of the finances of the Church is urged as an argament. The wealth of the church has been gathered by the ministers, and is all controlled by the laymen. There is no legislation in the Conferences except on spiritual matters. Who snould settle where numisters are to go but the ministers themselves? Lay delegation would make slaves of the poor ministers. He would not respect a minister who would

THE JUNIATA SMUGGLING CASE. into the articles seized on board the steamer Juniata, from New-Orleans via Havana, shows that 16,000 cigars had been smurgled by some under-officers of the steamer, through the influence of some man in this city. They were immediately discharged, on the claim that the goods, which were on the ship's manifest, properly belonged to her stores, and as such were not subject to seizure. It is also said that the purser, through some difficulty with the company's officers, arising out of the cigar business, had tendered his resignation and was leaving the ship with brandy, gin, wine, &c., which he claimed as his own property, when they were taken possession of. The matter has been reported to Collector Moore, who will institute a strict investigation.
